Offering quality over quantity

Since it began in 1999, Avante has been at the forefront of the revolution in bathroom style. Steering clear of the "pile it high, sell it cheap" school of thought, Avante's focus is on quality over quantity, drawing upon classic influences to create elegant and contemporary designs.

With a history of supplying leading bathroom retailers up and down the country, Avante now only sells direct to the public from its new online store, where an enviable catalogue of bathroom products is available to buy at excellent prices.

And, to coincide with the launch of its new website, Avante has just introduced two new ranges: its Etna range of lavastone shelves (from £169 in white and £209 in colour); and its Cielo range of Corian bowls (between £119 and £139). Until 31st March 2007, readers who buy a Cielo bowl, will be given a set of Genova wall taps (usually from £49) at half price; Avante is also offering readers 15 per cent off the listed price of Roma Taps (from £69) when they purchase one with a product from the Etna range.
